

ANOTHER EUROPE IS POSSIBLE

TRADE UNIONISTS AND PROGRESSIVES SHOULD BACK AN 'IN' VOTE IN THE EU REFERENDUM. HERE'S WHY

WHY STAY IN THE EU?

Free movement of people

Your right to work and study in other European countries would be at risk if Britain left the EU. There are 1.8 million British people living in Europe who currently benefit from these rights.

Workplace protections

Limits on weekly hours, guaranteed breaks at work, paternity leave, rights for agency workers and minimum amounts of annual holiday – these key rights are protected at European level.

Secure human rights

Membership of the European Convention on Human Rights secures precious freedoms. Leaving the EU places our rights at real risk: many who advocate British exit also want to abandon the European Convention.

Environmental safeguards

Key safeguards protecting wildlife and tackling climate change have also been won at a European level. By establishing a level playing field they stop a 'race to the bottom' on environmental standards.

Why 'Another Europe'?

Protecting these things doesn't mean settling for Europe as it is. A different Europe is urgently needed – one that breaks with the free market economics that have caused so much damage to our societies.

With 1 in 4 EU citizens at risk of poverty and social exclusion, we can't afford to accept the same broken economic thinking. Building 'another Europe' means working to strengthen social and progressive movements across the continent and pushing for democratic change – not walking away from the EU.

It's clear that an exit at the current time would boost right wing movements and parties like UKIP and hurt ordinary people in Britain.
